NEWS BRIEFING

CRF Voice Concern Over EU Rice Tax Cambodia

Phnom Penh Post: 03 December 2018

The president of the Cambodia Rice Federation (CRF) has expressed concern over an impending EU tariff on Cambodian rice imports, saying that it is factors within EU states that are harming European farmers most.

"Difficulties faced by European farmers are largely due to the lack of collaboration between them, millers and traders," CRF president Sok Puthyvuth told the press on Friday. He said the "high cost of milling in [EU]member states" was the main obstacle to improving European rice industries, not imports of Cambodian rice. Read more...

EU tariffs on Myanmar, Cambodia rice unclear after EU countries vote

Euronews: 04 December 2018

European Union countries failed on Tuesday to determine whether to impose tariffs on rice coming from Cambodia and Myanmar from the start of next year to curb a surge in imports, leaving the European Commission to take the final decision. A majority of EU countries backed the introduction of "safeguard" measures for three years, but not the sufficient "qualified majority" formally required to clear them. Read more...

India rice rates slip; tough Chinese rules dent Vietnam exports

VN Express: 07 December 2018

India's 5 percent broken parboiled variety was quoted around $364-$368 per tonne this week, from $366-$370 the last week.

"Prices are down as traders are adjusting to the drop in the rupee. Demand is still weak," said an exporter based at Kakinada in the southern state of Andhra Pradesh. The Indian rupee fell nearly 1 percent on Thursday to the lowest level in two weeks, increasing exporters margin from the overseas sales. Read more...

Government allows more traders to import rice

Businese Mirror: 22 November 2018

Manila will allow rice imports beyond the country's minimum access volume (MAV) after the National Food Authority Council (NFAC) approved the out-quota guidelines on Wednesday to further boost the Philippines's stockpile.

Positive sign in EU rice tariff saga

KhmerTimes: 06 December 2018

The European Union yesterday failed to come to a consensus on taxing Cambodia fragrant and white rice, giving leaders of the local rice sector more time to plan the next step in their fight to stop the EU from imposing tariffs.

Yesterday's vote, hailed as a positive sign for Cambodia, failed to deliver a decision on the regressive rice tariff imposition that is expected to start from Jan 1 next year, with 15 of 28 member states either rejecting the proposal or abstaining from the vote. Read more...

Thailand wins deals to export tonnes of rice to Philippines

Vietnam Plus: 28 November 2018

Department of Foreign Trade (DFT) Director-General Adul Chotinisakorn said Thailand has won the auction to export 80,000 tonnes of 25 percent white rice to the Philippines' National Food Authority, with shipment scheduled for December 2018. Meanwhile, two exporters have also won auctions to export another 144,000 tons of the 25 percent white rice to the Philippines, which are to be shipped in December 2018 and January 2019. Read more...

China 'to lift import ban' on Niigata rice

NKH World: 29 November 2018

China has decided to resume imports of rice from Niigata Prefecture. Japanese government sources say China has notified Tokyo of its decision. China suspended imports of all agricultural and fisheries products as well as animal feed produced in Fukushima, Miyagi, Tokyo and 7 other Japanese prefectures, following the 2011 accident at the Fukushima Daiichi nuclear power plant. Department of Foreign Trade (DFT) Director-General Adul Chotinisakorn says that 100,000 tons of newly grown 5% white rice will be sent to COFCO in China, which previously purchased six batches of Thai rice. Another 80,000 tons of 25% white rice is to be delivered to the Philippines' government in December. Another 144,000 tons of rice is being sold via two Thai exporters that won an auction held by the Philippines government. Shipment is to take place in December 2018 and January 2019. Read more...

A rice revolution is underway in Asia

Asia Time: 23 November 2018

advances reminiscent of the "Green Revolution" of four decades ago, agricultural scientists have quietly made important breakthroughs in the cultivation of Asia's prime staple food, developing so-called "scuba rice" that survives long periods of flooding and an alkaline-resistant "sea rice" farmers are already growing along China's northern coast. Read more...

Hybrid rice to feed rising population: analysts

Daily Star: 25 November 2018

The cultivation area of hybrid rice—which offers higher yield than conventional inbred varieties—did not see a significant change since 1998-99 when the government granted permission for its farming.

Hybrid rice cultivation area has remained unchanged at 8 lakh hectares for the last few years and it is yet to cross the 10-lakh-hectare mark, the highest recorded in 2009-10. Read more...

Press Release of Cambodia Rice Federation

- (4) In fact, the majority of Cambodian rice (55%) imported into the EU is fragrant rice, which we understand is not currently grown in Europe. Fragrant rice is from photo sensitive rice paddy, which can only bear fruit at a certain time of year and is difficult to grow in the climates of the EU.
- (t) Overall, there is insufficient data reviewed by the EU Commission to make any proper conclusion to warrant safeguard measures and evidence provided by the CRF has been utterly ignored.

Given the potential damage caused to Cambodian farmers and to the fledging rice sector in the country, CRF believes placing safeguards on Cambodian rice is harmful, unwarranted and against the spirit of the many EU efforts to date to encourage Cambodia's rice sector. The safeguard measure placed on Cambodian rice will cause the damage to the revenue of farmers (esp. smallholder farmers, with more than 40% with less than 1 ha of farming land or more than 90% with less than 3ha per household), leading to outflow of labor from this sector and affect the food security in the future. At the same time, it can push them back below poverty line and affecting their children future life which rely on this revenue for schooling and

It would be a serious setback for Cambodia if the safeguard measures are adopted We believe even with the safeguard measures, it will not improve the livelihood of EU farmers in Italy and Spain, especially as Cambodia is not competing with these Member States for the large part. We also note Cambodia is not the cheapest rice being exported to the EU.

Cambodia's focus is on producing the world's best quality of rice, especially by championing our rice from the area around the Tonle Sap lake of Cambodia.

We respectfully request the EU member states to continue to support Cambodian farmers and to recognize the strong deficiencies in the current case and to vote
